1948: Dunvilles Three Crowns Whisky half bottles (8)

Dunvilles Three Crowns Whisky was distilled in Belfast from the 1870s until its demise in the 1930s. Good examples of this whiskey such as these are extremely scarce and these examples were left in a "stack N" bonding warehouse in Belfast from the 1940s until their rediscovery a decade ago. This consignment was tested by Whisky expert Jim Murray who described it as "Beautiful, very intact". 8 half bottles with the original wooden case they were found in.

€4,000-€5,000 (£2,960-£3,700 approx.)
